

Phantom Galleries Superior offers Free Photography Class

Phantom Galleries Superior is offering a free photography class with professional photographer Ken Kollodge. Ken is a fine art, commercial/industrial, stock photographer now living in Duluth, MN, after 30 years in Alaska. His photography can currently be seen at 1410 Tower Ave., Superior, WI as part of the inaugural Phantom Galleries Superior project. The details:

Class: Learn 2 - One Light, High-Impact Photo Portrait Techniques

Time: Starts 5:30pm at 1410 Tower Ave, Superior, WI, a Phantom Gallery location on Thursday, August 18, 2011.

Cost: Free

Class size: Limited to the 1st 15 that show up.

Equipment required: Furnished by Ken Kollodge

Attendees: Bring pad and pencil to make diagrams and record questions asked and answers given, and if you want, a camera with either a hot shoe or PC connection - SLR with manual setting capability or a Leica M series digital - the best choices.

What to Expect: An informal session starting with a "bare stage" and participation or observation of setting up the two portrait techniques step by step and then, optionally and as time permits, a little practice by attendees. Virtually no time will be spent talking about what the best camera is or "my lens is sharper than yours" or how to use Photoshop.
